

GOVERNOR (1985 : 1993 BANGERTER) ^[446]

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT RECORDS, 1984-1988

6 cu. ft. and 11 reels microfilm

DESCRIPTION: These are the records of David Buhler who served as Governor Norman Bangerter's policy advisor in the area of economic development during Gov. Bangerter's first term. They include correspondence, memoranda, reports, notes, and rarely photographs. One of the keystones of the Bangerter administration was to encourage business-oriented government, focussing on ways government could assist economic growth. The records document individual and cooperative efforts of state, federal, and local agencies; various task forces and inter-organization committees; and private corporations to attract new business to Utah and to encourage the growth of those already in the state.

The Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED) with its various divisions, was a major player in this effort, comprising approximately a third of the series. The agency dealt with industrial development, international trade, community development and housing, minority affairs, tourism, etc. Several task forces, advisory boards, and other organizations--such as Metro, Inc.; the Committee of 100; the Minority Advisory Councils; the Federal Research Committee and so forth--dealt with similar projects. Records pertaining to labor relations and job training efforts for laid-off workers are also included. Oftentimes several groups would collaborate on a single project.

Major development efforts noted here include attempts to attract the winter Olympics, the superconducting super collider, and the Saturn car assembly plant. The Utah Technology Finance Corporation funded emerging high-technology and high-growth companies. The Governor and DCED officials took several trips to the Far East to expand trade networks with Taiwan, Korea, and Japan. The Governor also participated in economic development conferences conducted by gubernatorial and Republican associations. In addition, he initiated an annual economic development conference sponsored by the state.

In addition to specific economic development projects, David Buhler also wrote a number of the Governor's speeches, particularly those emphasizing economic development. His background files are included in this series. Some constituent correspondence, again particularly that pertaining to economic development, was also referred to him for response.

ARRANGEMENT: Arrangement is alphabetical, thereunder chronological.

RELATED RECORDS: Series 12412, CHIEF OF STAFF RECORDS, includes additional information on many of these same topics. Labor information may also be found in the EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT'S CORRESPONDENCE, series 12420. Speeches written by David Buhler may be found in series 8581, SPEECHES AND OFFICIAL STATEMENTS.

PROCESSING NOTE: These records were transferred to the Archives in 1987 and 1989 with the office correspondence. The records were scheduled, classified, and archivally processed by A.C. Cone, March 1994. Original file headings were retained to the extent possible while still being consistent; unfiled material was interfiled. Files were then alphabetized. The series was microfilmed in June 1994.
